Outskirts Press, United States, 2010. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 224 x 147 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .A loud boom exploded into the early dawn's quiet calm. It was Thursday morning, September 25, 1941, in Winnsboro, South Carolina. Daylight was just beginning to peek through the window shades of the Holmes family farmhouse. Inside, all six children were sleeping soundly, except one, Thelma, who was so frightened by the boom sound, she lay cowering under her bed quilt, holding closely her baby brother, Donald. Thelma's mother, Gladys, was standing outside at the pigpen and jumped when she heard the loud boom sound. She took off running towards the house. Lord, Jesus, Gladys prayed as she ran, please don't let nothing else bad happen, please. Seems her family was being hit by one calamity after another. Gladys entered the house calling out to her husband Will, asking if everything was all right. Not waiting for an answer, she proceeded to the kitchen to check the pot-bellied cook stove. Seeing that it was fine, she continued down the hall to the children's bedrooms to check on them. All were sleeping soundly except...
